

Editor's Comment:

There are several errors that I describe below,

1- At the end of the text of the article, before the references section, they mention that "Details of the AI usage are given below:", and three numerals 1, 2 and 3 follow that are empty.

2- In some of the articles in the References section, after the title of the article, come the letters D and J between square brackets, which are not part of the title of the original referenced article. The authors must remove these parentheses or explain their meaning first.

3- References [5] to [12] appear in the text after reference [13]. They must appear before. This has to be corrected.

If the authors satisfactorily correct the above, I believe that the article can be published.
