

Editor's Comment:

After careful reading both the reviewers' comments and the authors' feedback, I read the manuscript myself and found the now we could assess as minor revision before publication. The authors have answered many of the concerns of the reviewers.

Still, I have some remarks:

first, the title still is too long. The only changes it has undergone was the word order though one of the reviewers had suggested a better title.

second, the references lack some uniformity, i.e. if it is Chicago, MLA or APA - it should be the same in all the references. (I highlighted the issues).
