

Editor's Comment:

The authors only made a few changes I suggested. Again, authors should be careful to check all citations and review references if they in a rush to publish. That really did not happen (I checked with the previous file_v1);

Citation Dietschi and Spreafico (13) is not in the references. Also, all subsequent citations must be altered (in the citations and also in reference item);

Citation Cuspal (page 9) and reference McLaren have been lost/supressed (both in the previous file). A new reference showed up (23, Assif et al., 1994), but, for example, the following ones did not change the numeration (compared to the previous file);

- References have not been updated. Reference added: from 1994. The last one (29) has no information;

-References must be standardized (authors must check the 'instructions to authors');

- Titles and subtitles should not be punctuated;

-Discussion should be more elaborated and rewritten. Only one sentence was added by the authors...

-Figures must start in capital letter;

Therefore, after all the changes (done properly and carefully) suggested here, the paper must be re-evaluated again before being accepted. So in its current format, I still do not recommend the publication.
