

Editor's Comment:

Although authors improved the quality of the manuscript according to reviewers' suggestions, not all issues were fixed.

In particular:

1. The summary of the article provides information about the overall study. It would be more appropriate to simplify the detailed explanations given in the summary section and remove additional information
2. Throughout the article, very old sources have been used. It is important to replace these resources with more up-to-date resources from an innovative perspective.

After these modifications, the manuscript will be suitable for publication.
