

Editor's Comment:

The manuscript has a merit for publication, but the authors should state in the first appearance what an abbreviation means. In the abstract they use RDF but the reader can not understand what it means. How were the dose rates calculated? based on what the 25:50:30 kg of NPK ha⁻¹ was chosen? Furthermore, the authors claim that they have measured soil pH and Ec but they do not present them anywhere. Also they say they measured protein in seed but they do not present it (unless the biological yield refers to protein - if this is true then it must be noted somewhere).
