Regarding this interesting topic of today's life:

Along with my fellow reviewers I agree with their observations and more:

1. Literature Review, immediately after the Introduction;
2. Of course, the elements of the analysis in the study case part.
3. Acknowledgements better to be inserted after References
4. References are wrongly written: Authors in the alphabetical order of their last names: example, first reference Abowd, J. and the following authors with A. Attention to pos. 54, the last name is Stoica and first name is Adriana, therefore at S. Also, please remove the notation of the references, especially into brackets.

OK with the highlight of the importance of such skills into society and, maybe, importance in economy of these young persons with such skills.

And a quick revision of the language.

After these, ok for publishing.
