It is a new method, not transferable by heat, saving money and environmentally friendly. It is widely used in the food processing sector. As it is an ultra-fast sterilization and preservation technology. The rapid growth of microorganisms is one of the most difficult things for the food processing industry, so this technology is very important in inactivating microbes. In order to increase the storage period and provide high-quality food products. It also helps prevent physical and chemical changes to increase the microbiological quality of food. Therefore, from the applications mentioned in this research in various sectors of the food processing sector, it can be successfully concluded that the effectiveness of this technology in the food processing sector is highly appreciated and that it is one of the most promising technologies. The manuscript is clear, concise, reasonably self-contained presentation of the material, Figs and tables are clear, giving adequate reference to related work, the title is appropriate and the abstract is adequate for verbatim reproduction in abstract journals. This work is good. So I recommended this work to publish in Journal of Scientific Research and Reports.	Revised
