The manuscript is important to scientific community as it expounds the information by which scientists can get an idea how and where they have to work for the betterment of society. 2. I think the title should be like " Sustainable Management of Resources in Hilly Areas: A study from North East India" 3. Not that comprehensive, you should first discuss about sustainable management not directly the hill agriculture. 4. The author is not fully aware about the sustainable management as shifting cultivation cannot be a part of sustainable management as he mentioned that different problems occurred in those areas where jhum cultivation is being practised. 5. Yes 6. The references are not sufficient, please go through the literature that too recent and add them to your manuscript Apart from above mentioned points you have to first highlight "What is sustainable management, its benefits then only you can add about the sustainable management in hilly areas of North East India
