

Editor's Comment:

I read both reviewers' comment about "Assessment of Aquifer Vulnerability and Groundwater Prospects Using Electrical Resistivity Method in parts of Nnewi Southeastern Nigeria"

First reviewer's comment is very important.

For example, an abstract should be both scientific and more understandable.

Many of these have been repeated in the article

The introduction section of the article should be restructured

Also English grammatical structure of the article should be reconsidered.

If the authors take these requests of the reviewers into consideration, the article can be published.
