If you have suggestion of additional references, please mention in the review form. (Apart from above mentioned 6 points, reviewers are free to provide additional suggestions/comments)	The manuscript might arouse the intention of surgery to pay more attention in this area. More cases are required to get insight into the condition. Looks fine to me Too simple Paragraph wise is OK but the content is more important. No comment as I am not a medical doctor. It is not easy for a layman to understand the context. A bit out of date and the author should search for more updated papers Comments for consideration: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. What were the findings of the histopathological examination (HPE) of the excised cyst? 2. Did the patient experience any postoperative complications, and how was the recovery process after the laparoscopic excision? 3. What are the specific symptoms of gastric duplication cysts, GIST, and IMT, and how do they differ? 4. What are the potential complications of EUS-guided fine needle aspiration biopsy, and how common are they? 5. What are the key factors that help distinguish between duplication cysts and IMT on histopathological and immunohistochemical examination?
Minor REVISION comments 1. Is language/English quality of the article suitable for scholarly communications?	English needs polishing, and I did some rephrasing for clarity Please countercheck the content of my attachment as well.
Optional/General comments
