Optional/General comments	Firstly, I would like to thank the Editor for the invitation and secondly, the authors for the research carried out. The objective of the work described in the last sentence of the Introduction should be included in the abstract: "This study aimed at determining the effects of tillage methods and FYM and potassium rates on soil moisture conservation and relationship between soil moisture and cassava root yields in Kagera region". The objective should be preceded by its importance, also well explained in the Introduction section. The abstract should be reformulated to include the importance of the research and its objectives and should only be a summary and not an exhaustive description of the methodology and results, which should appear in the respective sections, in order to avoid repetitions. All the rest of the research is to be congratulated.
