

Editor's Comment:

This paper is titled "Measurements Of Some Products Sold In The Peripheral Markets Of Bandundu City By Male And Female Gardeners In February 2023" is very interesting. This paper presents the results of a field survey carried out in the town of Bandundu, where they estimate the quantities (weight, number and nutritional value) of several products sold by local market gardeners and regularly consumed by the populations from Bandundu.

The author addressed the main concerns from the reviews, the revised version of the manuscript appears to be good. It looks READY for publication.
