

Editor's Comment:

I read the different documents with great interest (see the document referenced by : Ms_, Rev_ and Revised_ms_MRJI_119154_v1).

This document is a more bibliographical work which focuses on emerging diseases that are often neglected. These diseases are often induced by known pathogens considered neutralized. I agree with your definition, the causes of these diseases and the consequences on agricultural production and food security. We now start from one health.

I note that your title or theme is not adapted to the content developed (Emerging pathogens and their impact on global crop production). I suggest you accept the title proposed by the instructor of this article (Impact of emerging pathogens in crop production). See the document referenced by Rev_ms_MRJI_119154_San_A.

This paper is very rich in information and deserves its publication if the author agrees to bring more consistency and modify the title!.

Editor's Details:

Prof. Konate Ibrahim
Jean University Lorougnon Guédé, Côte d'Ivoire.