Optional/General comments	In the part, "When the epidemic struck, the country maintained its healthcare system by employing doctors and nurses from all over the world, particularly from India, Pakistan, and Philippines. This led gross misconduct in the practice, and inexperienced workers putting the lives of vulnerable patients." - this part needs references. Do authors mean US trained physicians in those countries? Were they licensed in US? One suggestion: To help the readers' understanding, authors may create a table to show the international cost comparison; for example, insulin glargine for comparing the cost coverage among countries, such as the raw price of the medicine, and coverage of the cost by the private insurers, governmental funds and end-users (patients).
