

Editor's Comment:

The study addressed an interesting subject, although more thorough analysis and discussion would have made the research more relevant than it remains.

The authors have taken good account of some of the relevant suggestions of the Reviewers, yet the English language remains, here and there, sometimes approximative.

Please revised all along the text the spelling of "Syrphid", which, too often, is wrongly spelled as syphid.

Once these ultimate correction is made, the revised manuscript can be considered for Publishing in ARJA.
