| Is the manuscript important for scientific community?(Please write few sentences regarding this manuscript to justify your answer)         | Yes, such manuscripts contribute to generate scientific ideas and concepts. Beside this, it is necessary to carry out such kinds of researches because those motivate people/ community/ society and country to identify new techniques/ technologies based on truth and facts which leads the individuals, society and nation towards progressive direction. Therefore, I consider this study as a base of the scientific society.   |   |
| Is the title of the article suitable?(If not please suggest an alternative title)  | The selection of topic is definitely attractive in appropriate subject matter but it is too long. If you feel easy it is better to write in active voice. The alternative topic may be: "Perception of Agricultural Input Dealers and Their Challenges for Selling Kitchen Garden Pouch in Anand District of Gujarat Or "Perception of Agricultural Input Dealers and Their Challenges for Selling Kitchen Garden Pouch (A Case study of Anand District in Gujarat)  |   |
| Is the abstract of the article comprehensive?  | To some extent, though some important components are missing which I have indicated in the text. In my opinion, if the researcher includes those parts, then this abstract seems to be somewhat appropriate.  |   |
| Are subsections and structure of the manuscript appropriate?   | Respected sir/ madam, However, i am not familiar with the authentic format which you have adopted for writing articles and research papers but the arrangement of subsections and structure of this manuscript seems appropriate and orderly also which has reflected this article as a research article.   |   |
| Do you think the manuscript is scientifically correct?(Please write few sentences regarding this manuscript to justify your answer) | This article can be accepted as a scientific study because the researcher has followed the rules and procedures of the social science research as far as possible. Here, I have mentioned some examples from the text of the manuscript to clarify this statement: a. The researcher has used the mathematical of Henry Garrett's ranking method to draw meaningful insights from the collected data. Percentage position = <math>\frac{100 (R_{ij}-0.5)}{N_j}</math> b. Similarly, he has adopted mean score for the purpose of ranking of factor influencing for purchase of the Product. c. In addition, qualitative analysis of the study also seems to be reliable and consistent. d. Along with this, the researcher has carried out his study in comparative and descriptive style based on percentage etc. e. Moreover, the maximum effort of the researcher seems to use academic language rather than ordinary colloquial language. |   |
| Are the references sufficient and recent? If you have suggestion of additional references, please mention in the review form.                  | The author has reviewed many previous and recent literature while preparing this article. However, it cannot be considered sufficient to identify research gap. His maximum emphasis seems to be on reviewing Indian publication but there have been enough studies in other countries of Asia, Europe, and North America in similar topic. If the practice of those areas had been reviewed and research gap identified this article would be more readable and exploratory.   |   |
