

Editor's Comment:

The authors conducted a study and evaluation of chili pepper genotypes: a study of morphological and nutritional characteristics.

The research was carried out at a high scientific and methodological level.

The goal and objectives are completed.

The authors used modern equipment and materials.

However, the following remarks can be made.

1. Abstract. There is no research purpose. The abstract does not disclose the results of the study.
2. Introduction. There is no research purpose.
3. Add a Discussion section.
4. Perform statistical data processing. Add a section in materials and methods.

Correcting comments will improve the quality of the manuscript and increase interest in the manuscript.

I recommend accepting the manuscript after correcting the comments.

Editor's Details:

Dr. Viktor Lemiasheuski
Associate Professor, International Sakharov Environmental Institute, Belarusian State University, Republic of Belarus.