However, it requires revisions in several areas. Specifically, it should include additional details on the statistical methods and the experimental design. Moreover, the methods used to measure quality parameters such as ascorbic acid content, total sugar, and reducing sugar need to be delineated. Likewise, the methods for analyzing soil components must be explicitly stated. Additionally, the manuscript would benefit from a more extensive discussion on the relationship between soil composition and both yield and fruit quality. This would enhance its engagement and impact on readers. Lastly, the author should diligently proofread the manuscript to rectify any grammatical and typographical errors.
Minor REVISION comments <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. Is language/English quality of the article suitable for scholarly communications?
