

Editor's Comment:

After a comprehensive examination of both the original and revised drafts, as well as the reviewers' contributions, it is clear that their contributions were invaluable and useful and significantly improved the overall quality of the manuscript. The authors skilfully integrated reviewers' feedback, resulting in a manuscript that is more coherent, thorough, and suitable for publication in the journal.

Except minor concerns regarding formatting, reference checking, and language refinement, the manuscript is complete in all technical aspects. In my view, it deals with a relevant topic and promises to make significant contributions to the existing literature.

I recommend the acceptance of the manuscript.
