

Editor's Comment:

Editorial decision on the peer-reviewed manuscript entitled "Challenges And Reflections Of Black Nurses In Mental Health: Navigating Between Colonialist And Decolonial/Ancestral Paradigms" (Manuscript No.: 2024/INDJ/114288) submitted to the International Neuropsychiatric Disease Journal.

After thoroughly reviewing both the original and revised manuscripts as well as the reviewers' feedback, it's evident that their input was valuable and constructive, greatly enhancing the overall quality of the manuscript. It is evident that the authors have skilfully incorporated the reviewers' feedback, resulting in a more coherent, comprehensive and journal-appropriate manuscript.

Except for minor issues related to formatting, reference checking, and linguistic refinement, the manuscript is comprehensive. In my view, it addresses a relevant topic and has the potential to make significant contributions to the literature.

I recommend the acceptance of the manuscript.
