Scientifically, this article is very good for sustainable development, especially ways to preserve nature (ecology). The author needs to improve his line of thinking: Indigenous people live in an area with a lot to learn from nature, because nature can cause disasters. As a result, a natural fearful attitude emerges from indigenous peoples, giving rise to confidence. This belief gave rise to a way of thinking about survival which later resulted in indigenous knowledge and technology. 2. yes 3. yes 4. adjust to the suggestion in number 1 5. adjust to the suggestion in number 1 6. yes 7.in the conclusion section: The author falsely states, " Spiritual knowledge must be included in TEK to honor indigenous epistemologies and emphasize ecological and spiritual connection". Indigenous communities with traditional knowledge about ecology emerged due to an element of fear of elements outside of logic whose spiritual spirit emerged strongly. This means that a high spiritual soul gives rise to knowledge to respect the environment.
Minor REVISION comments 1. Is language/English quality of the article suitable for scholarly communications?	yes
Optional/General comments	Because this is an opinion, it doesn't mean giving an opinion with just an ordinary explanation, give an opinion based on deep scientific reasoning.
