It is appropriate. The summary is understandable. The structure of the work is correct. The manuscript is scientifically correct. Bibliographic references are adequate, but the criteria for citing them should be unified.
Minor REVISION comments <ol style="list-style-type: none"> Is language/English quality of the article suitable for scholarly communications? 	The language used is appropriate and technically correct.
Optional/General comments	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> - In the materials and methods section, the treatments must be well defined; the reader cannot deduce which T1, T2, etc. corresponds to. - The titles of the figures go below them. - Section 4 is conclusion, correct. In the regulations for scientific publications there is no "Summary and conclusion" section, nor the "Future Research focus" section (the latter can be included in the Conclusion section). - Do not use as keywords those that are already present in the title. - Correct the scientific name of the crop, the correct one is Allium sativum L. In addition, the name of the species must be in lower case, it should not start with a capital letter. - The "et al.", of the citations should be in italics.
