This study highlights the need for more investigation and education on the possible impacts of personal care products on the human microbiota in the current context. It also emphasises how crucial it is to carefully formulate and test these kinds of treatments to make sure they don't seriously upset the skin's and scalp's natural microbial balance. Yes, the article is suitable. I want to suggest one more title "Exploring the Effects of Hair Care Products on the Indigenous Microbial Flora of the Human Scalp" . If the author want to refer, he or she can use this. Yes Need some pictures if author can add. i.e. pictures of hair creams used, picture of culture, Colonial Characterization of the Isolates etc, if possible Yes but need some database of results in the form of table, graphs, pictures etc. Please try to set the references according to journal format by removing punctuation errors.
Minor REVISION comments 1. Is language/English quality of the article suitable for scholarly communications?	Yes. Need to correct some minor punctuation errors and grammatical mistakes
Optional/General comments	1-Overall work is good but need some improvement like graphs of data, pictures. 2-Although the work done by author is very good, please try to add pictures of various parameters of test for better presentation.
