Regarding the above-sent paper:

it is interesting. I agree, a quick revision of the language and grammar for a better understanding of what is explained in this paper.

I appreciate the method used in this case, which is coming to strengthen the empirical observations in this agri-domain of Tanzania.

And a last observation: because it is needed to raise the educational and professional levels, hence what is the final task of the farmers, that is what is the share of this production in Tanzanian economy worth this effort?
