

Editor's Comment:

I advise the paper can be considered for publication (with one remark).

Author/s of the paper presented a Minireview on the use of primates in formulating experimental models. This work is based on 16 references, and the manuscript covers one Table. The paper could be considered for publication, as it is – but it would be better if the author/s – apart from the Table – could present a graph//diagram showing directions of the studies (??).

No other remarks are reported.
