

Editor's Comment:

I have read the original article, the reviewers' comments and suggestions, as well as the corrected version. I agree with one of the reviewers that the references should be updated. The reviewer recommended to add one reference from the past three years, which the authors included (one study published in 2021). However, I feel that the references should still be updated to include more recently published articles. If the authors do this, then I opine that the article is ready for inclusion in the Journal.

Accepted after minor revisions.
