MAJOR REVISION-

Some issue with methodology which am highlighting-

Objective says impact of stress on health- How is descriptive study a justified design?

Only asking one question "Whether you have stress?" is not a correct tool of measurement-this has biased the measure

Author need to change objective term impact, instead use correlation between two parameters

Also how were study subjects selected-purposive random sampling? This is no term in sampling procedure either its purposive or random-recheck

Discussion section is missing, there is no comparison with other studies

Is it the format followed for dissertation?
