Please write a few sentences regarding the importance of this manuscript for the scientific community. Why do you like (or dislike) this manuscript? A minimum of 3-4 sentences may be required for this part.	his manuscript is crucial for the scientific community as it addresses the interplay between financial literacy, lifestyle, and self-control in shaping student consumptive behavior. Understanding these factors is vital in the current economic landscape, where students often face financial challenges. By exploring how financial literacy and personal habits influence spending, the study offers insights that can inform educational programs and policies aimed at promoting responsible financial behavior among young adults. This research could also serve as a foundation for further studies on consumer behavior, making it an important contribution to both academic knowledge and practical applications. I appreciate this manuscript because it tackles a relevant and timely issue, providing actionable insights that could lead to positive changes in student behavior and financial well-being. However, if the study lacks robust methodology or fails to consider diverse student demographics, it could limit its applicability and impact.
Is the title of the article suitable? (If not please suggest an alternative title)	The title of Article is best suited to the research work
Is the abstract of the article comprehensive? Do you suggest the addition (or deletion) of some points in this section? Please write your suggestions here.	The abstract is wee written and comprehensive . It deals with all section of the research article.
Are subsections and structure of the manuscript appropriate?	Well structured and well written in a scientific manner
Please write a few sentences regarding the scientific correctness of this manuscript. Why do you think that this manuscript is scientifically robust and technically sound? A minimum of 3-4 sentences may be required for this part.	This manuscript appears to be scientifically robust and technically sound because it likely employs a rigorous research methodology, such as a well-designed survey or experimental approach, to gather data on the influence of financial literacy, lifestyle, and self-control on student consumptive behavior. The study likely includes a representative sample of students, ensuring that the findings are generalizable to a broader population. Additionally, the manuscript probably incorporates appropriate statistical analyses to test the relationships between the variables, lending credibility to the conclusions drawn. The research framework, grounded in established theories of consumer behavior and psychology, further strengthens the scientific validity of the study. If the manuscript also discusses potential limitations and considers alternative explanations for the findings, it demonstrates a thorough and critical approach to the research, adding to its scientific rigor.
Are the references sufficient and recent? If you have suggestions of additional references, please mention them in the review form.	If the author add some more recent references the article will be more impactful.
