However, throughout the cropping season, the crop is often infested by many insect pests due to the lack of proper plant protection measures taken by the farmers. As a result, farmers experience significant losses. Therefore, it is crucial for researchers to develop an integrated pest management approach that can effectively manage these pests in a timely manner. This research is beneficial both for the farmers and the researchers.

If farmers do not take precautionary measures while sowing, the crop can be severely affected since the pest is seasonal. Pigeon pea growers need to be very cautious about the timing of sowing.
