

Editor's Comment:

I have thoroughly examined the manuscript and the accompanying referee reports. It appears that the author has addressed the requests made by the referees. However, a significant issue remains that has not been identified by the referees: the absence of references within the manuscript. The author has not provided citations, which is inconsistent with academic writing standards.

I must emphasize that the inclusion of references is crucial for the integrity and credibility of the work. Should the author incorporate the necessary references within the text, I would be willing to approve the manuscript for publication. In its current form, however, I cannot endorse the publication of this paper.
