

Editor's Comment:

I have reviewed the files referring to Work JERR. It is my opinion that the authors have responded satisfactorily to the points made by the referees. However, the article can be published, but the authors must correct or explain two things:

1- In the Disclaimer (Artificial intelligence) part, the authors say that "Details of the AI usage are given below". However, in the three numerals that follow, there is nothing written.

2- In the titles of the articles referenced in the corresponding section, the titles of the articles contain the letters D or J in the middle of square brackets, which does not belong to the title. The authors must remove those brackets.
