In the scientific literature, there are more and more works dealing with the role of apitherapy, as well as other insects in the contribution to modern medicine. So today this type of therapy is increasingly included as a complementary part of modern therapeutic doctrine. Also, although at one time with the development of pharmacotherapy, this type of treatment was ignored, now more and more attention is paid to this traditional medical field and its undeniable importance is seen. That is why works of this type represent a significant contribution to the reaffirmation of traditional medicine. As one of the founders of the Academy of Beekeeping and Apitherapy of Serbia (registered with the Ministry of Education and Science), I am personally impressed by the effort shown by the author
