Is the language/English quality of the article suitable for scholarly communications?
Optional/General comments	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. The Tense must be Simple Present Test. 2. In the last para in page 2. He referred the 'dispute' as term. It is not term but a word. In fact there is no need to explain the meaning of dispute. It is a commonly used word and every English reader now its meaning. It is unnecessary detail and just wordiness. The same is applied to the next 2 paras about 'teaching' and research & Corona. 3. In the last para of p.5 and first para of the p.6 there is repetition of the same thing at the same place. It reads: Consequent upon the above-mentioned, the researchers investigated the impact of Academic Staff Union of Universities' (ASUU)-Federal Government of Nigeria (FGN) disputes on teaching and research on the output of public universities in North East, Nigeria. Purpose of the Study This study investigated the impact of ASUU-Federal Government of Nigeria (FGN) disputes on teaching and research on the output of public universities in North-East Nigeria. It is just wordiness. It can me mentioned simply as "Consequent upon the above-mentioned, the researchers investigated on the following" 4. This is rather a survey report than a research-paper. A typical research paper must contain, in the first stage some facts that co-relates two variants under discussion(For instance, due the long strike by ASSUS during the summer of 20xx the PhD output was fallen X that was Y in the preceding year and z in the following year.
