

Editor's Comment:

The paper is accepted with some correction:

- Some errors in scientific language. Please, check carefully.
- Please, remove the dot "." at the end of title.
- The abstract is too long, please reduce the words in the background, methods and in the results.
- Verb of the aim of work is to be in the past, not the present.
- The references within the text should not appear with complete names of the authors. Please, write the last name of the first author followed by "et al.,"
- You can add to limitations of the study with the reference that the study did not include asking about girls' sexual activity during their menstrual cycle, which may lead to infection and may later cause endometriosis.
