Is the language/English quality of the article suitable for scholarly communications?
Optional/General comments	Report Dear authors, The manuscript " Physico–Chemical Characterization of Camel (Camelus dromedarius) Milk as Influenced by Parities and Seasons under Pastoral Production System in Katsina State, Nigeria" investigate the various physico-chemical properties of camel (Camelus dromedarius) milk produced under pastoral systems in Katsina State, Nigeria. However, in order to make the research seem better than it actually is, it must be written logically and the results must be articulated soundly. The introduction is very brief and requires more information about the importance of raising camels, and benefits of its milk, and its impact on the national income. Materials and methods need to be reformulated and more details required. Results were well written. Discussion must be reformulated in a clearer and more analytical way of the results and linking them to the extent of the impact on human health. However, I strongly believe you have to address the question and concerns that were written in the revised manuscript before the publication of your study.
