

Editor's Comment:

The author should adhere to template from the journal.

Background poor without references in text.

Patients and methods. Very poor. Is it a cases? I could think in a retrospective cross-sectional study.

The author said the statistical analysis was in excell (it is a Trade Mark, needed more information about the software) but what were the statistical test? What Bioethics Committee approved the study?

Table 1 is joined with discussion

Chandler's classification [6] is copied from some publication. If the author did not mention about the source could be plagiarism, and is not noted as table or figure.

Many grammar mistakes.

Very poor in technical writing for a scientific paper.
