

Editor's Comment:

The manuscript (Nitrogen losses and enrichment of soil and sawdust coverings during composting of poultry manure) submitted for review.

My opinion is this: the article is well written and structured.

The authors have complied with the requirements of the journal for text formatting. I believe that the manuscript definitely has scientific value.

I cannot say whether this study would be applied on a larger scale, but the results are still interesting. I think the article is suitable for your journal Asian Journal of Soil Science and Plant Nutrition.
