

Editor's Comment:

The content of the manuscript is indeed important, and the paper deserves being published.

However, it should be checked again by a person highly skilled in scientific English writing; parts of the text are not easy to read (comma setting, etc.). Moreover, I am surprised that in their introduction ("There are reports that 61 % of human diseases were potentially of zoonotic origin with 75 % of emerging human infectious disease (EID) originating from wildlife (2,9).") authors do not briefly refer to the current COVID19 pandemic, which is also supposed to be of zoonotic origin.

Hence, the manuscript can be published after slight adaptation.

Editor's Details:

Dr. Martin Koller
University of Graz, Research Management and Service, Institute of Chemistry, Austria