

Editor's Comment:

Authors could not revise the paper sufficiently according to the suggestions of the reviewers. It is not clear how authors found a conclusion such as: "The Central Bank of Yemen should have control over the money supply circulating in the economy, as well as a review of the balance of foreign investments." Language of the paper is problematic. Tables are not like a formal paper style. There is no discussion section in the paper.

My final decision is to reject the paper for publication since it does not satisfy the quality standards of the journal.
