

Editor's Comment:

Upon reading the article, it is clear that the leading studies have a mixed method, the purpose of which is to identify relationships and trends between the listed factors and respondents' perceptions.

Of particular importance is the opinion of the reviewers. Shortcomings are noted and positive recommendations are given. I believe that the assessment given by the reviewers (minor edition: >8-9), respectively, and the article can be published after revision, as an article with a review character.
