

Editor's Comment:

Based on all reviewer comments, this to notify your manuscript still needs improvements in a few areas such as (title, methodology and findings). Your title appeared as a review article but the article fact is not a review article.

Suggested title: Factors affecting Agricultural products traceability system: application of blockchain technology

Your methodology should be highlighted as a conceptual framework and based on the framework needed to analyze data the findings of analysis need to be placed as results and discussion.

As you need above all works, therefore I am informing you that the final decision is major revision required before publishing this article. The journal editorial board is offering you another chance to improve your manuscript and send it back within two weeks. Hope you understand and respect the editorial board's decision.
