The manuscript requires a minor revision according to the following list

-The manuscript provides a broad properties of P niruri on microb, antistimulant, immunostimulant with relatively less information on growth. Even on growth performance reported in the manuscript, it was reported without a known rearing condition. Restructure of the various properties stated earlier followed by effects of P niruri on growth is suggested.

-typing error / inconsistency of scientific name format / inconsistency of font type used are found throughout the manuscript. Some of them are already highlighted in the attached file.
