Compulsory REVISION comments	By using multiple regression analysis of such independent variables with an attitude household leaders, the paper did conclude that age is negatively correlated with the attitude of leaders. In addition, the more educated the leaders the more favourable attitude they are bound to have towards Panchayati Raj Institutions. It looks good!
Minor REVISION comments	Paper was used good method for data collection with 263 respondents from 9 janpads, and also suitable data analysis such as Likert-type scale or multiple regression analysis. However, it would be fine if the manuscript presents descriptive statistics during regression analysis.
Optional/General comments	Person's attitude and psychology are considered as an interesting issue and it is the result of a complex interactions. It is also said that more relevant researches are in front of us. It maybe depends on some factors (such as communities, ethnic groups, political institutions, empowerment,...)
