Compulsory REVISION comments
Minor REVISION comments	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>There is no explanation in the background of what the initial propositions that can be sourced are, why it is important to examine farmers' knowledge about citrus cultivation practices, or how the citrus cultivation patterns that local farmers have carried out are related to their products so that it can be your argument in justifying that this worth researching</li> <li>Additional references to previous research results are needed.</li> <li>Maybe my suggestion is that you can discuss a little about the influence of markets and prices as one of the indicators that encourage farmers to cultivate mandarin oranges.</li> <li>Table 2 about the distribution of knowledge, it is better not to rewrite the results listed in the table. Still, it is better to discuss why the percentage of such numbers appears associated with theories or the effects of other people's research.</li> <li>Conclusions can be added to an explanation of the factors causing the level of knowledge.</li> </ul>
