| Compulsory REVISION comments | | |
| Minor REVISION comments | This is an interesting and rare case report of a young patient with systemic sclerosis and complete heart block. The conduction disturbance is often irreversible in spite of the etiological treatment, requiring implantation of a cardiac pacemaker. I consider that the manuscript is valuable and sound and that it may be published after some minor revisions. I suggest to include an ECG after permanent cardiac stimulation and also to revise the English language. | |
