Compulsory REVISION comments	This article entitled: Christianity and Citizen's Participation in the Electoral Process: A Case of the Seventh Day Adventist Church in Southern Province of Zambia is a very good paper. It shows the influence that the Christian religious beliefs and practices of the Seventh-day Adventist Church (hereafter SDA) in Zambia had on its fledgling democracy. It highlights the religious influences that have had a very positive impact on the levels of participation of SDA members in the electoral process, particularly the election campaigns and voting exercises of recent times. The article is therefore very interesting because it shows the rise of religion considering the failure of politicians in Zambia as in many African countries today.
Minor REVISION comments	It will be better to: -put the point 4.0 Zambian Political Context and the SDA Church just after the introduction -To show the consequences of religious motivations on politic in Zambia
Optional/General comments
