Minor REVISION comments	In general, the topic "evaluating the role of maternal income in mediating the effect of mother's education on under five child mortality" is important. Despite substantial progress in reducing child mortality globally, at present 37 children still die per 1,000 live births globally. It is imperative that more research be undertaken to examine the effects of different factors on child mortality, so that policy makers can intervene in a more effective manner. By showing the effects of maternal income and education on child mortality, the authors contributed to that effect. I believe the paper is perfect and must be accepted for publication. Several references, such as reference numbers 17, 20 & 21, need additional checking.
Optional/General comments
