Compulsory REVISION comments	I. Grammar, punctuation, or structure mistakes in the article * In the Abstract subsection (a) In line 1, in the sentence "Indonesia has to tamed the chances ....". it appears that the verb tamed should be in the base form as part of the to-infinitive following has. Please replace tamed with tame (b) In line 2, in the sentence "since Indonesia n.". what is it?? The sentence made is incomplete. Please revise it. (c) In line 7, in the sentence "..... countries, suc as Mexico and Haiti, .....", there was a typo. Please revise it. Replace suc with such (d) In line 10, in the sentence "...For example, by giving simplification of custom procedures .....", it appears that the noun custom is being used as an adjective, but you may have chosen incorrectly between the singular and plural form. Please replace custom with cuctoms * In the Introduction subsection (a) On page 1, 1st paragraph, line 1, in the sentence "The Pacific region, for so long, had become the focus of spower spread ....", ) Typo?? Please revise the word spower. (b) On page 1, 1st paragraph, line 2, in the sentence "... still attracting many attentions .....", it seems that many attentions may not agree in number with other words in this phrase. Please replace many attentions with much attentions (c) On page 1, 2nd paragraph, line 2, in the sentence "Pacific's potensials have to be seen as a fortune ....", ) there was a typo. Please revise it. Replace word potensials with potentials (d) On page 1, 2nd paragraph, line 2, in the sentence "...fot a new recycled source for human being.", It seems that being may not agree in number with other words in this phrase. Please replace bing with beings Note: Only up to the Introduction subsection, the reviewer provides corrections for the need to correct grammatical/language structure errors, punctuation marks, or errors in sentences in the author's manuscript. Therefore, the author needs to check all the remaining sentences on the whole manuscript page, which have grammatical/language structure errors, punctuation, or spelling errors in the sentences, and please correct them. II. Comments from reviewer on the writing format and content of the article * In the Abstract subtitle The abstract subsection should explicitly contains the research background, objectives, methods, and findings. Please complete it. * In the Introduction subsection (a) The gap analysis and the main research objectives need to be explicitly disclosed in the Introduction subsection. Please complete it. (b) There should be a discussion of the shortcomings of previous related research and the novelty of your research. Please improve it * In the Methodology subsection The authors must clearly state the research method used, whether survey, literature review or other, accompanied by brief and concise explanations. For example: if the research method is survey research, then there must be an explanation of how large the sample is used, the significance of the level of research and other explanations. Please complete. * In the Conclusion subsection In your manuscript, there should be a Conclusion subsection. Please complete it. * In the Subtitle of References (a) The number of references cited in scientific journals is a minimum of 15 scientific articles. Please complete it. (b) The references cited must be from books, proceedings and scientific journals. Please complete the references you cite and references that are not from books, proceedings and journal articles should be deleted and replaced with other references. (c) In writing articles you should refer to the draft format of the journal article.
