Compulsory REVISION comments	The paper describes the online survey to find the extent of awareness about Human brucellosis in healthcare professionals in Gujarat, India. It is a very good piece of study regarding surveillance on Brucellosis. They have included all the questions related to source of information, clinical microbiological related details, and Awareness about disease diagnosis, treatment and prevention. But author did not included mode of training and awareness needs of health professionals not included. Also they have included only 69 participants in this and this is very low in number in my opinion.
Minor REVISION comments	Typographical and grammar mistakes in the manuscript may corrected in the body of the manuscript.
Optional/General comments	Might have included the names of species of Brucella that are causes Brucellosis in humans and animals and their health consequences in the consumers.
