Compulsory REVISION comments
Minor REVISION comments	The article entitled "The presentation of Small Bowel Volvulus in East Africa" is self-explanatory. This has described a case about the said topic that is quite visible in African and Asian country. This type of article usually provides information about management of this of cases in developing and resource-constrained countries. There have been several reports about similar cases in literatures. Thus, there may be some reservation about novelty of the article. However, the particular case bears some specific charcters and these have been emphasized. The following points may be considered by the autho9rs: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. The title should be homogeneous in nature., There may be a capital letter to start "Presentation" 2. The Masaka Regional Referral Hospital should be fully described by giving the name of city, country and other. Otherwise, it remains elusive as its position. 3. The patient had past illness and Discussion is required about her past illness and genesis of present pathology. 4. There should be mentioning about patient consent.
